Describe any extenuating financial circumstances and/or financial need:

My family hasn't always been in the position we are in today. When I was a baby my mom almost made the decision to go into housing hope. We are lucky and fortunate that our financial situation has worked out to what It is now. This means that it is hard for us to take on new and huge expenses like college. Unfortunately, I can tell my dad is already worried. He doesn't believe in or really understand student loans. He wants to try to pay for everything himself without resulting to that. I know my dad and I know he would put himself out of a home to support my goals. Especially since I decided I wanted to be a doctor so young.

I will be a first-generation college student out of everyone in my family, including my grandparents and my cousins. Nobody else has really gone for career paths that require further education. This is hard for multiple reasons, the biggest is because I have had to figure out all the application processes by myself. My parents don't understand the investment this is going to be, and I need as much support as possible, so my dad doesn't try to pay it all himself.

VII. SPECIAL INTERESTS AND/OR HOBBIES:

Spending time/building relationships with my friends (I am proud of the close friendships I have today, it was hard work for me to have them and they are so special to me)
Listening to music: I like finding new artists or even new entire genres I like, I have never been very musically talented myself but I am so intrigued by people who are Reading: I like a lot of fantasy style books, like The Hobbit and LOTR, but also some YA and mystery. My favorite authors are Holly Jackson, Donna Tartt, Leigh Bardugo, Benjamin Alire Saenz, and Madaline Miller. I just started reading the Hunger Games for the first time ever and it is quickly becoming a new favorite.
Human Anatomy: I love studying anatomy and learning everything I can about the human body, that is what makes Anatomage so fun for me. Being a peer tutor for the first year Sports Medicine class just gives me all of the opportunity I crave to use the Anatomage table and create quizzes.
